Instructions for your Household members

If you are required to self-isolate as a high risk contact, other children living at the same address, will have to stay home from school or child care for 10 days as well if they are not fully vaccinated, or previously positive.

- When all children living at the same address (for example siblings or cousins), that are not fully vaccinated or previously positive, stay home from school or child care, it reduces the risk of further spread and outbreaks in school and child care settings.
- Households have a high level of transmission, and this is the safest action we can take to protect the community.
- The people you live with should also stay home during your 10-day self-isolation period, except for essential reasons-if they are not fully vaccinated

- Household members should work from home if possible.
- Adults in the home should monitor everyone in the household for COVID-19 symptoms every day.
